

Wanted

One good man for President of this United States of America for 2012.

Charles Frederick Tolbert

I believe that it is apparent that we need to make changes in our country so that we can have a better life and future to look forward to. Below is just a brief list to peruse in this article.

1. We should make changes in our education system and have a constitutional amendment, which moves this responsibility directly to the Federal Government.
2. We must establish a presidential election process, where the nominee comes from the people and not from a two party system.
3. The elected president should come from the popular votes and not electoral votes.
4. That all individuals are allowed the opportunity of free education from the school of their choice.
5. That free medical care is provided to all individuals who live in the United States legally.
6. That specific individuals who are incarcerated, with the exception of rapists, child molesters and murderers, be pardoned with the condition that they serve three years in the U.S. Military and honorably discharged. The persons that fall in the category of rapist, murderers and child molesters, will have their cases opened and re-evaluated within a timely period, in order to process each case on an individual basis.
7. That the draft to be re-instated and those individual drafted be given access to the education system up to a Doctoral degree.
8. That the IRS is abolished and all purchases have a Federal Sales Tax.
9. Complete review of our foreign aid policy and at least a 50% reduction.
10. No lobbyist can contribute to an individual or political party.
11. Reduction or stoppage of outsourcing.

In 1962 the late President John F. Kennedy wrote, "The most important human qualities of leadership are best embodied in the most towering of American Presidents, Lincoln wrote: "a combination of humility and self-confidence, inner resolution and energy, which also gives a President the capacity to listen to others, to be aware of his own limitations, but also to follow the command of John Adams that "in all great and essential measures the President is bound by honor and his conscience, to act his own mature and unbiased judgment.' I can advise you to be aware of the importance of these qualities, but no one can tell you how to develop them. I only hope, for the welfare of our country, that you will possess them when you come to office. If some chance keeps you from presidency, you will still know that you are prepared to serve well your nation as a citizen." J.F. Kennedy (1962), How to prepare for the Presidency. New York, N.Y. Parade Pub, Inc.

Mr. Tolbert has a BS, MD, MEd and is currently completing his doctoral degree in educational leadership from Nova S.E. University. He has served 22 years in the army and retired in 1981 after which has owned his own company. Currently, he is the overseer of CFACS, Inc where you can view his resume at www.cfacs.com/path and you can contact him at cfacs@gate.net